Louis Schiavone

Vice President
ACS Public Safety and Justice

Louis Schiavone is Vice President of the Public Safety and Justice business in the ACS Government Solutions Group. He oversees a portfolio of solutions in six practice areas:

- Fire Records Management
- EMS Billing and Collections
- Command and Control Solutions
- Court Case Management
- Jury Management
- Corrections.

Prior to joining ACS, Schiavone earned a reputation as an innovative thought leader. He built and led one of Hewlett-Packard's largest state and local initiatives: the Emergency Communication Transformation Program for New York City, a $1.3-billion program to enhance the City's emergency response system.

Schiavone began his career with Digital Equipment Corporation, where he held a number of executive positions, including Vice President of Outsourcing. He has led large, global IT service organizations at several large corporations, excelling in both sales and operations. He also helped start several smaller companies such as ContentGuard, a joint venture between Microsoft and Xerox.

Public Safety and Justice

Schiavone is an authority on the following issues:

- Design, implementation and best practices surrounding systems for Public Safety and Justice programs
- Managing large multi-vendor, multi-customer programs
- Governance models across agencies
- Interoperability
- Business transformation.
